

Seminar B

Session leader: Martha Shaw & Adam Dinham
Co-presenter / accompanying teacher: Conor George, Jack Hunt School, Peterborough
Session title: Innovation Through Co-production: Teachers and researchers working together to generate innovation in religion and worldviews education.
Key questions addressed: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• How are teachers engaging with the CoRE National Entitlement?</li> <li>• How can teachers and researchers work in partnership to develop innovative RE?</li> <li>• What makes innovation possible?</li> <li>• What are the benefits of teacher/researcher partnerships?</li> <li>• How can teachers effectively contribute to on-going curriculum development?</li> </ul>
Main content and activities of session: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• We will present the Innovative Spaces of RE for Real project – case studies of innovative RE in 5 schools.</li> <li>• We will explore the process of engagement with research and co-production.</li> <li>• We will reflect on a showcasing event - the benefits for teachers, researchers and the impact on policy development</li> </ul>
Links to resources, publications, etc : The case studies will be made available online prior to the event. The following may be useful background reading: https://www.gold.ac.uk/media/documents-by-section/departments/research-centres-and-units/research-units/faiths-and-civil-society/REforREal-web-b.pdf