

Culham St Gabriel's Short Courses – Quick Start Guide

Welcome to our short courses. All are available free of charge and can be completed at a time and pace to suit you. They are all housed on our secure Moodle eLearning platform.

This guide takes you through how to use the site. Let's start at the homepage

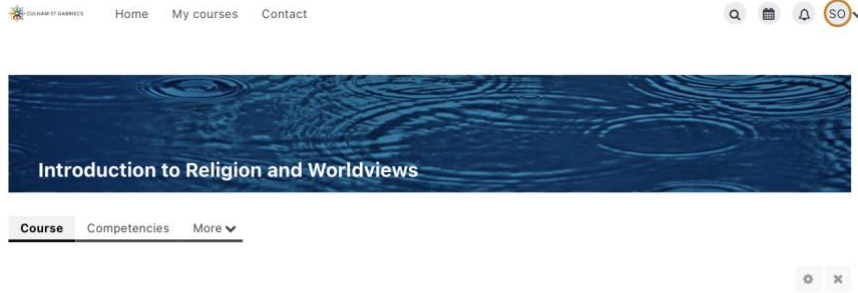

You can browse all the courses on offer.

Click on any of the courses to see more details about what they cover

You don't have to be logged in to browse the courses or see more details

To take a course simply log in. You will need to create an account if this is your first time here.

When you start a course the course page will open

Course introduction

Welcome to the Introduction to Religion and Worldviews course. This course provides an introduction to the thinking behind this new approach. You will cover the shifting aims of the subject over time, what is meant by 'Religion and Worldviews' in the Commission on RE's report, what this looks like in the classroom, and what pupils say. There will be points throughout the course to pause and reflect. You will be able to 'export' the information for your records. As you will see, moving towards a Religion and Worldviews approach involves more than adding new content, it describes a deeper a shift in how we think about knowledge and appreciating the different ways of knowing. A Religion and Worldviews approach is a multidisciplinary approach to knowledge and understanding. This will feel different. For this reason we begin by offering an idea of how the aims of the subject have shifted over time. This is not the first moment of change in the subject's history, as you will see.

Below is a glossary of terms. As you go through the course you will notice that some words are displayed in orange italics. These words are included in the glossary.

Glossary of terms

Each section of the course. Is displayed as a tile.

A tick indicates you have completed the section.

Click on the first section to begin the course.

The section expands to show its contents.

Click on the hyperlink to show the course content. If there is more than one click on the first.

What is the Commission on RE Report?

Done: View

As you will see from this video, the thinking around Religion and Worldviews was first introduced by the Commission on RE. Watch this video to find out more:

The video is available on YouTube at <https://youtu.be/-A9sVaN-wg> (link opens in new window)

What is the Commission on RE Report?

1 / 9

Previous Activity Next Activity

The section of the course opens. Most course sections are presented as slides like this one. To navigate through the section use the navigation. At the base of the slide. Click on a grey rectangle to go directly to that slide

To navigate back to the course homepage click on the orange course title in the navigation

You can print the section (or save to a pdf file) by clicking on the print icon

To navigate to the next section use the navigation blocks.

If you don't want to finish the course all in one go you can logout and come back later. Your progress in the course is saved.

At the end of each section you can export your entries

What is Religion and Worldviews?

Export text

In sections of the course you are invited to enter text responses to questions. You can download your entries at the end of each section by clicking on the 'Export text' button

