Help young people engage with the world.

Every day, RE teachers help young people engage thoughtfully with different beliefs, values and worldviews. If you want a career that makes a difference, consider teaching RE.

Help shape the people who will shape the future.

The conversations you lead in the classroom today can shape the society of tomorrow. Teaching RE is an opportunity to make a lasting impact on young people's lives.

Help young people understand themselves – and each other.

RE helps young people understand themselves, others and the world around them. As an RE teacher, you could inspire those conversations every day.

Brilliant RE matters more than ever.

Brilliant RE has never mattered more. If you're looking for a career with purpose, teaching RE could be the opportunity you've been searching for.
